Liturgical Jottings

In the Preface of the Eucharistic Prayer, the priest states, "Let us give thanks to the Lord." The word "Eucharist" means thanksgiving, and throughout the Eucharistic Prayer, we offer praise and thanksgiving to God. In this Prayer, we acknowledge that God makes what is good, blesses it, and fills it with life. What we are most thankful for is Jesus Christ who gives us his Body and Blood. At the last supper according to John, Jesus washed the disciples' feet before dying, loving them until the end. With the Eucharist, Christ continues to love and nourish us.

Jubilee Year of Mercy

Let us enter more deeply into the Gospel where the poor experience God's mercy. Jesus introduces us to the works of mercy so that we can know whether or not we are living as his disciples.

Pope Francis Misericordiae Vultus no 15

Looking at the Readings

In the readings for this week we see the reaction of those who hear the word of God. Jeremiah was told that he had been called to be a prophet even before he was born. Yet he had to fight against the people to whom he was sent. Those who heard Jesus were first amazed at his words and then later sought to throw him off a cliff. We too are often quite resistant to the word of God.

Neither Jeremiah nor Jesus recoiled from the implications of their call, regardless of the resistance they experienced. Instead, they entered even more deeply into the call to love. Lest he brood over his injuries, Jeremiah is reassured of God's protection. And, without aggressively demonstrating his strength when he was threatened with harm, Jesus exhibited patience and kindness. Both men bore and endured their bitter misfortunes. This is the image that is placed before us as an example for us to follow.

The call to discipleship is a call to live in the eschatological age of fulfilment inaugurated by Jesus. We can say with certainty that God calls us to a new way of living. We may chafe under the suffering that it could cause us, but we will not be left alone in our distress. As God was with Jeremiah so we can depend upon God to be with us in our need. We must remember that, however we do react, our response must be born out of love. © Dianne Bergant CSS

Sharing our Tradition

The mission of Christ to bring hope and mercy continues through many agencies and movements of the church both locally and globally. We are Christ's disciples: "By living with the mind of Christ, Christians hasten the coming of the Reign of God, "a kingdom of justice, love, and peace." They do not, for all that, abandon their earthly tasks; faithful to their master, they fulfil them with uprightness, patience, and love. Catholic Catechism §2046

2016 marks a significant anniversary in the story of the Sisters of Mercy in the Sandhurst Diocese.

The following is taken from the diocesan website: Following his episcopal ordination in Ireland in September 1874, Bishop Martin Crane set out to recruit nuns to staff schools in the newly-created diocese. After approaching several convents, he obtained some volunteers from the Sisters of Mercy convent at Swinford. He arranged for these to follow him to Australia as soon as possible.

On 1st October 1875, three nuns and four postulants sailed from London on board the Dunalistar bound for Melbourne.

The passenger list gave their details as follows: Mrs M Aloysius Martyn,

Mrs M de Sales Dooley, Mrs M Ligouri O'Hara and Misses Annie Woods, Ellen Gough, Eliza Byrne and Bridget McDonald.

The group was given a grand liturgical welcome on Sunday, 23rd January 1876. Bishop Crane presided at St Kilian's church, which at that time was the original stone church. Bishop O'Connor of Ballarat was also present.

Another grand event occurred at St Kilian's on March 26th when the three postulants received the habit of the Sisters of Mercy and became novices.

This Tuesday 2nd February marks the end of the Year of Consecrated Life. We pray in thanksgiving for the love and generous commitment made by religious to the Diocese of Sandhurst and ask that Our Lord will send more labourers into the harvest.
