Liturgical Jottings Ministries at Mass

The Psalmist: It is the psalmist's place to sing the Psalm or other biblical canticle between the readings. To carry out this function correctly, it is necessary for the psalmist to be accomplished in the art of singing Psalms and have a facility in public speaking and elocution. (GIRM 102)

Amoris Laetitia

Love is not jealous: This same deeply rooted love also leads me to reject the injustice whereby some possess too much and others too little. It moves me to find ways of helping society's outcasts to find a modicum of joy. That is not envy, but the desire for equality. (para 96. Pope Francis)

Looking at the Readings

In today's passage of Luke's gospel, Jesus sets out on his final journey to Jerusalem. He has warned the disciples of the suffering that awaits him there. They cannot begin to believe the horror ahead for him. Yet, Jesus determinedly takes the road for Jerusalem. We, too, need determination to follow Jesus along his way. At times we will be tempted to look for excuses to turn back. He cautions us, 'once the hand is laid on the plough, no one who looks back is fit for the kingdom of God.' Yet he also reassures us, as does today's letter of St. Paul to the Galatians: "If you are guided by the Spirit you will be in no danger of yielding to self-indulgence..."

When the people of the Samaritan village would not receive him en route, James and John wanted to punish them, but Jesus rebuked his disciples. It is clear that Jesus wants his disciples to share his message, not to judge those who reject it. The animosity between the Jews and Samaritans was long-standing, but Jesus sought to spend time in the Samaritan village. Even when they rejected him, he left open the possibility of future acceptance of his message as is indicated in Acts 1:8 where he assures his disciples: "...when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, in all Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth."

When some people he encountered expressed a desire to follow him, Jesus presented them with some significant challenges. He emphasised for them the seriousness of what they were seeking to take on. The lot of Jesus' disciples is tied in with Jesus' own lot. He is inviting them to let go of the past, to walk new paths, to live in ways that they might not otherwise live. We, too, can ask ourselves "How are our lives different as followers of Jesus than what they might have been otherwise? or that question posed on bumper stickers some time ago: "If you were on trial for being a Christian, would there be enough evidence to convict you?"

Quotable Quote

On the Lighter Side

A priest quizzed a lawyer: "What do you do if you make a mistake on a case?" the lawyer replied: "Try to fix it if it's big; ignore it if it's insignificant. What do you do?" The priest replied "Oh, more or less the same. The other day I meant to say 'the devil is the father of liars,' but instead I said 'the devil is the father of lawyers', so I let it go."

The reality of Syria

By Oliver Maksan

In an urgent appeal to the outside world, Franciscan Father Ibrahim Alsabagh is calling on Christians throughout the world to pray for the Syrian city of Aleppo, currently caught up in the midst of heavy fighting. "Never, since the beginning of this terrible war were things as bad as they are now. I have no words to describe all the suffering I see on a daily basis", Father Ibrahim reported on Tuesday 3rd May to the Catholic charity Aid to the Church in Need (ACN). He tells us how the Orthodox Easter, on the previous Sunday, had been a very sad affair. "It was more like Good Friday than Easter Sunday. Two liturgies were celebrated but they were very poorly attended. People were either burying their dead or else they stayed at home out of fear. It was depressing. When will the world community finally wake up and put an end to this new Sarajevo?"

Directly under the Holy See, Aid to the Church in Need supports the faithful wherever they are persecuted, oppressed or in pastoral need. ACN is a Catholic charity – helping to bring Christ to the world through prayer, information and action.

For more information or to make a donation to help the work of Aid to the Church in Need, please contact the Australian office of ACN on (02) 9679-1929, email: info@aidtochurch.org or write to Aid to the Church in Need PO Box 7246 Baulkham Hills NSW 2153.

Donation forms are available in the narthex and side entrance.

The Perfect Prayer

One of the fondest memories I have of my father is of him kneeling in prayer by his bed first thing in the morning and last thing at night. I never thought of him as an especially holy man but his faith obviously meant a lot to him, even though in many ways life had dealt him a pretty tough hand. But, as he often said, he was always grateful 'for many blessings'.

Gratitude reminds us that everything we have is gift. That probably isn't all that fashionable today, expressing appreciation for what one has, rather than a consumer-driven emphasis on what one might want or what one feels one needs for happiness. On the other hand, the 'Positive Psychology' movement is also becoming more fashionable. Its studies show that gratitude can increase our well-being and happiness and, if we work at developing this positive attitude, it is associated with increased energy, optimism and empathy. Even happiness!

It is easy to take things for granted or to feel that we deserve this or that, that we earned this, that people owe us. None of that is true.

Basically, gratitude is an acknowledgement that we have received many gifts and blessings. This doesn't mean that life is perfect; it doesn't ignore complaints, burdens, and hassles. But when we look at life as a whole, gratitude encourages us to identify the goodness in our life.

The 'undeserved' bit is the hardest to acknowledge. It is easy to think that we did it ourselves, that this or that success is all down to me – we may have had a hand in it, but ultimately a lot of others had a hand in it too. Genuine gratitude challenges our tendency to reward ourselves exclusively.

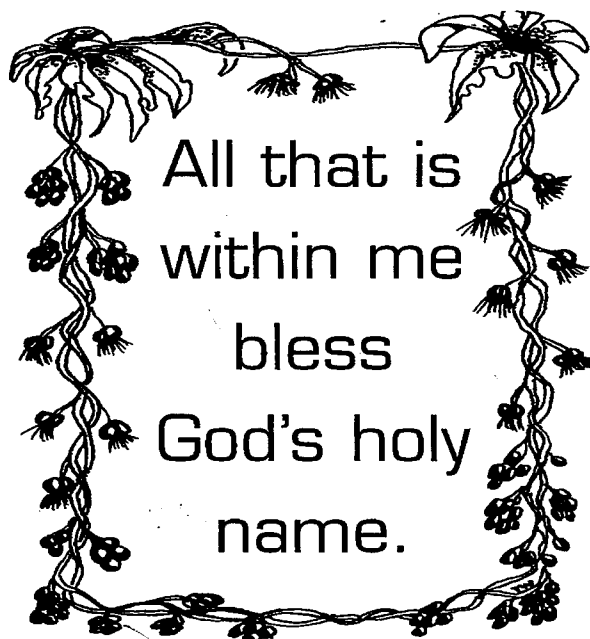

My father's daily prayer involved counting his blessings on a regular basis, first thing in the morning and then in the evening.

Gratitude is a very basic element of belief in God. We can't do without it. Gratitude helps us to understand that God has given us life, God has gifted us with talents.

Gratitude acknowledges the creative work of God in our lives. We recognise that we cannot save ourselves. We need God's free gift of grace, we need others. Gratitude helps us to recognise the ongoing presence of God with us and within us even now. Gratitude saves us from the sense of self-sufficiency that leads to forgetfulness of God.

Reflection

The Perfect Prayer

Generous God,

*Thank you for the new day,
For the gifts and challenges which lie within it.*

Thank you for this work.

It is my way of answering Your call to be a co-creator of our world.

Thank you for the gift of this family, for the many joys and blessings that have come to us, the challenges that make us grow, that bind us together.

Thank you for our daily bread and for those who have made it possible.

Thank you for the necessities that keep me aware of your generous bounty in my life.

Thank you for the corrections that bring me to growth.

Thank you for the gift of hope.
